

He's on land – why? What is the officer behind him looking for over the wall? What is William smiling about? Where's his hat?

William with one of his Lieutenants. Why is the Lt. so serious and yet William looks amused? What/who are they looking at? Why does the midshipman behind them look so startled?

William is sad. Is this a funeral? Or perhaps this is during the dark moment when he and Julia have been separated seemingly forever. Look how tender his eyes are, and how gently he's touching the flower.

William is amused/pleased, but is controlling it to not show too much emotion.
